Property Description

The Golden Triangle is known for extraordinary homes. Far fewer come with five hectares of private land.

Set in the countryside near Almancil, within minutes of Quinta do Lago and Vale do Lobo, this remarkable estate offers something increasingly difficult to find in the Central Algarve: genuine acreage, complete privacy and established equestrian facilities without sacrificing proximity to the coast.

Across approximately 50,000 m² of landscaped grounds, the property has evolved as a collection of residences, gardens and leisure spaces rather than a single house. The result has the character of a private country estate, with enough separation between its different elements for family, guests and staff to occupy them independently.

At its heart is the principal residence.

Portuguese architectural character is balanced with contemporary comfort, with generous reception rooms, spacious en-suite bedrooms and extensive terraces designed around the Algarve's outdoor way of life.

The interiors open naturally onto mature gardens, olive trees and the surrounding countryside, creating a house that feels connected to its landscape rather than imposed upon it.

Outside, a heated swimming pool and Jacuzzi form the centre of the principal leisure areas. Landscaped terraces, a peaceful internal courtyard and dedicated wellness and entertainment spaces create a series of distinct environments for dining, entertaining and retreat.

Beyond the main house are two fully independent guest residences.

Their separation from the principal villa gives the estate unusual flexibility. Extended family can stay for long periods with genuine independence, guests can be accommodated privately, and dedicated staff accommodation can be provided without compromising the main residence.

Then there is the equestrian element.

Professional, licensed stables, paddocks and a dedicated riding arena are integrated into the grounds, creating a fully established environment for keeping and exercising horses at home. Within the Golden Triangle, where substantial private land is already scarce, this combination of acreage and equestrian infrastructure makes the property particularly unusual.

The scale of the estate also changes the experience of living here.

Five hectares allow the residences, pool, gardens, horses and open countryside to coexist without competing for space. The property feels removed and rural within its boundaries, yet the geography tells a very different story.

Quinta do Lago and Vale do Lobo are only minutes away, placing championship golf, beaches, restaurants, international schools and the amenities of the Golden Triangle within easy reach. Faro International Airport is also conveniently close.

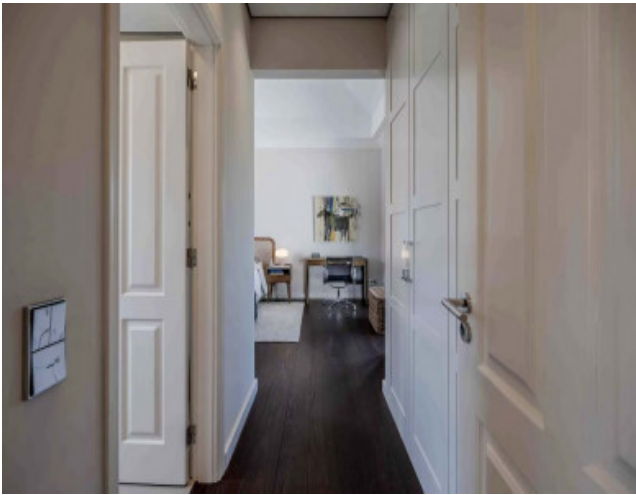

That juxtaposition is perhaps the estate's greatest luxury.

It offers the privacy and scale normally associated with a rural Algarve quinta while remaining embedded within one of southern Europe's most valuable residential locations.

Approximately 50,000 m² of private land. Three independent residences. Licensed equestrian facilities. And Quinta do Lago and Vale do Lobo virtually on the doorstep.

A rare Algarve estate where the value lies as much in the land and freedom surrounding the house as in the residence itself.
